G. Pawan, Firoze, Susan and Hardeep went for a picnic. The neighbourhood park was their picnic spot. They carried a mat, plates, glasses and a big picnic basket full of yummy food. They had some cheese and vegetable sandwiches, spinach-corn patties, noodles, an apple pie and chocolate brownies. They also had apples, mangoes, oranges and bananas. They played cricket, badminton, football and enjoyed the three-legged race. They sang, danced and had lots of fun. After the picnic they remembered to collect the empty wrappers, fruit peels and food crumbs in a bin bag.

- F. It was a fine Sunday morning. Jatin woke up early. He walked out into the balcony. He saw a lot of commotion on the road. The watchman had collided with the milkman. The milkman was lying sprawled on the road and his milk had spilled on the road. They were shouting at each other. Soon, they started fighting. They were fighting about whose fault it was. Soon, a crowd collected around them. The crowd did its best to calm them down. Finally, the fight was sorted out peacefully, and everyone went their way. What a way to start a Sunday morning!

- B. The book I have just read is called 'Ninnu: The Magic Goblin.' It is all about a naughty, little goblin who is lonely. He runs away to the enchanted forest where he comes across Priya, a sad girl. She is lost and far away from home. Ninnu decides to use his magic powers to help Priya get back home. However, a wicked witch appears. Her name is Kalaki. She steals Ninnu's magic powers. So, Priya and Ninnu burst into tears but they are determined to get Priya back home. After days and days, they walked and walked past hundreds of places like rivers, mountains, valleys and castles. Their feet were very sore. Eventually, they reached the mountain where Priya lived. Guess what? Her father who was a kind wizard called Chandan Singh appeared in a puff of smoke. Since he was so wise, Chandan Singh realised immediately that someone had cast evil spells on both Priya and Ninnu. Using his magic wand he undid the spell on Priya. So, she was happy once again and he undid the spell on Ninnu. So, his magical powers returned. What an amazing adventure! I wonder what happened to them all after that.

Project

A woodcutter was felling a tree on the bank of a river when his axe slipped out of his hands and fell into the water. As he stood by the water's edge, lamenting his loss, a fairy appeared and asked him the reason for his grief. On hearing what had happened, the fairy dived into the river and bringing up a golden axe, asked him if that was the one he had lost. The woodcutter replied that it was not. The fairy then dived a second time and bringing up a silver axe, asked if that was his. "No, that is not mine either," said the woodcutter. Once more, the fairy dived into the river and brought up the missing axe. The woodcutter was overjoyed at getting back his own axe and thanked the fairy warmly.

The fairy was so pleased with his honesty that she presented the other two axes also to him. When the woodcutter told his story to his companions, one of them was filled with envy of his good fortune. This other woodcutter decided to try his luck for himself. So, he went and began to fell a tree at the edge of the river and suddenly let his axe drop into the water. The fairy appeared as before and on hearing that his axe had fallen in, she dived in the water and brought up a golden axe as she had done with the previous woodcutter. Without waiting to be asked whether it was his or not, the fellow cried, "That's mine! That's mine!," and stretched out his hand eagerly for the golden axe. But the fairy was so disgusted at his dishonesty that she not only refused to give him the golden axe but also refused to recover the one he had let fall into the river. The motto of this story is: "Honesty is rewarded."
